The Rescue

The most funny ninja mission you'll ever see

STREET THEATER · WALKABOUT · 45 MIN · ALL AUDIENCES - NO TEXT

Two ninjas. A sacred fish.

Two ninjas arrive in the city with a sacred mission: to recover Maki, the fish stolen from their monastery. To find it, they will make their way through the city center, showing off their skills... peculiar and rather dubious. And in the end, with the indelible help of the audience, they will achieve the rescue.

Spoiler: the fish survives.
Ninja pride? We're not so sure anymore.

"Two ninjas who have traded violence for humor."

Three pillars, zero boredom

01

Improvisation

Each time is unique: the ninjas play with public space, improvise with the pedestrians and they adapt to what they find along the way.

02

Humor

A non-verbal show with physical gags and a lot of humor. Everyone laughs, no matter what language they speak. Have whatever age.

03

Urban site-specific

It merges with the space: balconies, trash cans, streetlights, benches, cars... the city is its set.
